Conditions Stud Owner Agrees To:

1. Provide bitch owner with copy of the stud's registration papers and pedigree of the stud dog.
2. Fill out litter registration form and promptly return to bitch owner.
3. Provide a return stud service if no pregnancy results from the mating with no stud fee charge within one year of the original mating.

In order to receive the return service, the bitch owner must notify the stud dog owner of failure to conceive in writing, not more than 70 days following the mating.

4. Have the stud in good condition and health with a negative Brucellosis test.
5. The stud dog owner shall be held harmless of any all liability, except as stated herein this contract.

Conditions Bitch Owner Agrees To:

1. Present Bitch in good health, up-to date on vaccinations & worming, and in season. We must have a current copy of her up to date shot records and she must be up to date on flea protection to board her with us for breeding. We also ask for a copy of registration papers and a pedigree if you have one on her.
2. Take precautions to make sure the bitch is properly confined following the breeding to ensure no other dogs breed her accidentally, before her season is finished.
3. To pay the agreed stud service price at the time of drop off and to pay the boarding and breeding fees when your female is picked up. Additionally, if any vet expenses are incurred while she is in our care they will need to be paid at time of pick up as well (we will notify you if we have to use a vet for any reason and get your approval unless it is an emergency and we can't get a hold of you then we will use our best judgement on attaining proper care for your female). If we are shipping semen to you the stud fee and the semen shipping costs must be paid for before collection and shipment.

We guarantee our stud service if your female doesn't become pregnant we will provide a return mating to the same bitch with no additional stud fee charge for up to one year of the original mating. However, all vet costs, progesterone testing, artificial inseminations & boarding will be charged at the return breeding. If for some reason the same female can't be bred again due to illness, death or fertility we will honor this contract with a replacement female.

STUD SERVICE & BREEDING INFORMATION:

We would like to know when your bitch comes in heat. Keep track of when the first signs of the female's heat cycle begins, (vulva swelling, starts bleeding/spotting). This will give us an idea when she will be ready to ovulate. If we will be doing the breeding, we like to have your female here by day 5-7 for the first progesterone test. So make sure you contact us to schedule you to bring her to the ranch around this time.

You may have your bitch progesterone tested by your vet and pick up the semen from us or have it shipped to you or your vet. Then your vet can artificially inseminate your bitch. If you would rather board your bitch with us and we will do in house progesterone testing and artificial inseminations that is all included in our stud fee price.

A quantitative progesterone test can be done by the vet usually on day 5-7 to get an actual number of your bitch's progesterone level or we can start doing the in-house progesterone test that will show a color change/progression as the bitch progesterone levels rise telling us when she has ovulated, and it is time to breed.

After ovulation occurs it takes the eggs 48-72 hours to be mature enough to become fertilized and they stay fertile for about 48 hours. This is the optimum time to breed a female. We artificially inseminate at least twice during this period.

COOLED SHIPPED SEMEN:

We offer cooled shipped semen to anywhere in the United States. You will need to have your vet start progesterone testing your female around day 5-7 and keep in contact with us regarding where your female is at in her cycle. We will need to know by 12:00pm on the day you are needing semen shipped out for the next day. If you know sooner than that please let us know as early as possible for us to make arrangements to have the stud collected and get the semen to the shipping center. You will need to have filled out our stud contract and emailed it to us along with providing the name, phone number and address where to ship the semen to and paying the stud fee and semen shipping costs before the first shipment is sent to you. The stud fee includes the semen, collection process and the cooled semen shipping container and breeding supplies. The shipping costs include the actual shipping charge and the trip to the shipping center.
